Report of the Directors.

DURING the year 1915 the work of the Company has gone steadily forward. The first building to be completed, known as the St. Giles block, was taken possession of in February by the two married patients who had been temporarily accommodated with their wives in the small farmhouse now occupied by the nurses; and the second, or St. Francis block, commenced just before the outbreak of War, was, after much unavoidable delay, finished and ready for occupation by July, when a third patient and his wife were received. Besides the above-mentioned cases, one unmarried man is also at the Home.

Through the liberality of Lady Strathcona, to whom the Directors wish to express their very grateful thanks, it has been possible to put up an inexpensive laundry, the want of which has hitherto caused the greatest inconvenience. A small sum has also been spent in repairing the old house and making it more habitable for the nurses. With these exceptions practically nothing has been laid out on improvements, and, in view of the difficulty of raising money at the present time, the expenditure during the year has been kept down to the lowest possible figure.

The warmest thanks are due to Sister Clare and Sister Margaret and to the Brothers of the Society of Divine Compassion for their invaluable services. To those who know something of the difficult and trying conditions of the work at Moor House it is evident that nothing short of the most complete self-devotion could enable them to carry it on. The whole work of the place, except the garden, but including that of the laundry (a task which it would be difficult or impossible to get any hired person to undertake), is performed without any servant or any remuneration whatever.

The late Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal left a sum of £5,000 for the relief of Lepers in England, which fund is now administered by Trustees under a scheme sanctioned by the Charity Commissioners, and it is anticipated that the Company of St. Giles will shortly benefit under the Charity thus formed. The care of severe cases of leprosy is necessarily costly, and the financial assistance hoped for must inevitably fall far short of the amount necessary for the upkeep of the Homes. In the case of one sadly afflicted patient the application of the dressings has taken about eight hours daily. In spite of the strict economy practised during the past year, the available funds of the Company have steadily dwindled away, until they have almost disappeared, and the Directors are therefore obliged, while thanking all those who have so kindly and generously contributed in the past, to renew their appeal for donations or annual subscriptions. There is at present no endowment and the annual subscriptions are very few, whilst the cost of maintenance amounts to nearly £500 a year.

The Directors wish to thank Dr. John Turner for his very welcome visits to Moor House and kind attendance on the patients; also the Hon. Grisell Scott for her generosity in placing a motor-car at their disposal for the general use of the Homes, for taking charge of the gardens, and for other valuable help. The motor is proving a great boon to the nurses—one of the patients being fortunately well able to look after it.

As mentioned by Sister Clare in her Report which follows, the general condition of the patients (with one exception) has improved since their admission to the Homes, and there is every hope that with the progress of medical research something further may be done to ameliorate their pitiable condition and arrest the course of the terrible disease with which they are afflicted.

In accordance with the Articles of Association the following Directors retire from office, but being eligible offer themselves for re-election, namely:—Sir Montagu Pollock, Rev. Canon Scott Holland, and Mr. H. L. D. Engleheart.

Report of the Sister-in-charge.

SINCE the last Report, written early in 1915, we are able to show slow but steady progress. In July the second block of bungalows, St. Francis, was opened, and the first patients received, so that we now have the two blocks complete. The extra rooms at the end of the new block are all in use; one is fitted up as a small chapel, which is at the service of any outside minister who may wish to visit the patients, and where, if the weather is fine, the chaplain holds services for our patients. One of the Brothers sleeps in a second room, so that he may be at hand in case of any emergency arising in the night. The Sisters have fitted up a small surgery, and find it invaluable for keeping drugs and stores and for their dressing room. The common room has been furnished, and we are now the proud possessors of a piano. We have had weekly social evenings and small concerts during the winter, and one great treat when Miss Campbell, a well-known singer, came down from London on purpose to sing to us.

The new laundry, owing to the generosity of Lady Strathcona, is just being completed. It stands behind the bungalows, and is a big airy room containing a copper, ironing stove, three fixed sinks, and water laid on. This will be an immense help, as it has been most difficult to carry on the increasing laundry work satisfactorily in the very small inconvenient old wash-house.

A gravel path has been completed between Moor House and the bungalows, and we have found it necessary lately to lay some surface drains down the side of it and in various parts of the bungalow field, in order to carry off water which is inclined to stand on the flat surface. The gardens round the bungalows are beginning to grow into shape. Labour has been so scarce and expensive that the rate of progression has been slow. Miss Scott, a lady who has taken a cottage outside the grounds in order to help the work, has very kindly undertaken the gardens, and we hope before long, under her care, to see the beds round the bungalows bright with flowers. The trees and shrubs have also suffered for want of extra hands to care for them, but they seem this year to have made a real start and growth. It is arranged to plant a small yew hedge across the field below the bungalows to break the line and give a more enclosed effect to the gardens. We have been almost entirely self-supporting this year in vegetables and fruit, and a small beginning has been made with chickens.

The Brothers have built themselves a small bungalow in the field allotted to them for the purpose. Three are permanently in residence, one being the chaplain. They are entirely responsible for the patients' laundry, and spend the afternoons reading and visiting the patients, and also do much work in the garden. The chaplain holds services for any of the patients who care to attend. The Roman Catholic priest, from Chelmsford, also regularly visits members of his congregation.

At Moor House two nursing sisters, and a third, who is not trained but who helps generally in the house and at the bungalows, are in residence. Several others are hoping to join us, but have been prevented from coming by the War. Extra helpers will be gladly welcomed, as this special form of nursing entails much strain, and we have already proved it difficult to obtain new nurses in times of stress. It is quite necessary to have had some previous experience of the work here in order to meet this need. We hope to have more novices in training, so that as the work increases they will be ready to take their part, and also that we may have time to test their capacity for this special form of life and work.

One of our patients has been terribly ill this winter, and it is very sad to see such suffering, with no hope of relief. We are glad to be able to report that the three others have shown marked improvement in health since they came to the Home. Dr. John Turner, of Brentwood, has most kindly given his services to the Home, and his visits have been much appreciated by the patients and their wives and the staff. We should like to express our gratitude for his kindness. We should like also to take this opportunity of thanking all the generous people who have sent us gifts during the past year—books and magazines, tobacco, plants, furniture for the common room, game and good things for Christmas, and last, but not least, old linen, which we are always in need of.
